Mystery shrouds former Banker's death

Financial deal goes sour; Police interrogate wife and her brother

Mysuru, Jan. 29 (RK&BCT)- A financial deal between a software engineer woman and her husband who is a former banker went sour and culminated in the death of the husband. The incident has been reported in city on Jan. 26 and the Police are presently interrogating the woman and her brother in this connection based on a complaint filed by the deceased's father.

A case under Section 304 of IPC (culpable homicide not amounting to murder) read with IPC Section 34 (acts done by several persons in furtherance of common intention) has been registered in Vijayanagar Police Station.

Vijayanagar Inspector Balakrishnegowda told Star of Mysore this morning that they are awaiting the post-mortem report to ascertain the injuries on the deceased's body to determine the cause of death. If the nature of injuries is grievous, the Section 304 case will be converted into a murder case under Section 302 of IPC, he added.

The deceased has been identified as 35-year-old Subramanya, son of Nagendra Murthy, a resident of Mudigundam, Kollegal taluk of Chamarajanagar District. He was working as an Assistant Manager in a multinational private bank in Bengaluru. He had met Rashmi, who was working as a software engineer in Bengaluru through Facebook.

Deceased Subramanya

Rashmi is a resident of Anekal in Bengaluru and was a divorcee. She had earlier married an advocate. Both Subramanya and Rashmi fell in love and six months back, they entered into a registered marriage at Sub-Registrar's Office in Mysuru. They later shifted to Mysuru and booked a house on rent in Vijayanagar fourth stage, Inspector Balakrishnegowda said.

Subramanya resigned from his bank job and both were living in the rented house. Subramanya was later hooked onto cricket betting and gambling and had invested huge money in Mumbai share market. He, however, ran into losses and he borrowed Rs. 87 lakh from Rashmi to repay the loans. The latter had got Rs. 1.5 crore from her share of family property sale.

Getting deep into the betting habit and gambling, Subramanya lost all the money and when Rashmi asked about the money, Subramanya told her that he had invested in some property in Tumakuru and had handed over some money to his father Nagendra Murthy to build a house.

SC rejects Nirbhaya convict Mukesh's petition challenging rejection of mercy plea

New Delhi, Jan. 29 (UNI)- The Supreme Court this morning dismissed the plea of Nirbhaya case death row convict Mukesh Singh against the rejection of mercy petition by the President, saying all relevant records, the verdict of courts were placed by Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA) before Ram Nath Kovind.

Dismissing the petition of 2012 Delhi gangrape convict Mukesh Singh, the Supreme Court said there is no merit in the contention. "Alleged sufferings in jail can't be grounds to challenge the rejection of mercy plea by President," the Supreme Court said. The Supreme Court also said that expeditious disposal of mercy plea doesn't mean non-application of mind by President. A three-judge Bench headed by Justice R. Banumathi pronounced the verdict on convict Mukesh Kumar Singh's plea.

Mukesh claims he was sexually assaulted in Tihar Jail

Mukesh claimed that he was sexually assaulted in Tihar Jail. Mukesh Singh's lawyer Anjana Prakash made the claim. Mukesh Singh was mercilessly beaten when he first arrived in Tihar jail, claimed his lawyer.

The Supreme Court had on Tuesday reserved verdict on a plea of one of the four death row convicts in the Nirbhaya gang-rape and murder case, challenging the rejection of his mercy petition by the President. President Ram Nath Kovind had rejected the mercy petition of Mukesh on Jan. 17. The four death row convicts in the case are scheduled to be hanged on Feb. 1.

Appearing for Mukesh Singh, his advocate Anjana Prakash alleged procedural lapses in dealing with his mercy plea by President and said exercise of power by President falls under purview of court's judicial review right. The Apex Court questioned how the convict can allege 'non application of mind' by the President in rejecting his mercy petition.

While Mukesh Singh has exhausted almost all legal options, another death row convicts in the Nirbhaya case approached the Supreme Court this morning with a curative petition. Advocate A.P. Singh, representing convict Akshay Kumar, said he has filed a curative plea and the SC registry has sought some more documents along with the petition.

"I have approached the SC registry with curative petition today. The registry has asked me to file some additional documents along with the petition and I am in the process of completing the formalities," Singh told reporters.

So far, the curative petitions filed by two convicts — Vinay and Mukesh — in the case have already been dismissed by the Supreme Court. Curative petition is the last legal recourse available to a person in a court of law.

Public in The Republic

On the occasion of celebrating 71st anniversary of birth of The Republic (India), it is appropriate to ponder over the plight of India's aam janata (public), unarguably a complex mix of the currently estimated 1,400 million people marked by profiles as diverse as one is willing to dissect and dwell deep. Their aspirations to live happily is well-taken, but to what extent they are making honest efforts to realise the wish is a big question. The three pillars of Democracy namely Legislature, Judiciary and Executive, being overseen by the fourth namely Media, need to provide stability similar to the tripod, but are they fulfilling that need is another and bigger question, in the backdrop of what is going on in the land.

There are no prizes for the right answer to the two questions, but one can venture to express one's understanding or otherwise of the underlying factors creating the scenario by the aforementioned four (may be three) pillars. The land's media, by and large, is doing its bit in enabling people to be aware of the happenings and more importantly the human factor behind the scene.

The Republic, according to pundits, is young and a long way to go before its successive generations revive its sagging socio-economic profile, despite having an enviable legacy of glory in many areas of human endeavour, as chroniclers of the past have recorded. Hope of revival and realities of public life seem to be pointing in contrasting directions.

The situation in the country both created and being experienced by aam janata calls for an honest introspection. By conforming to the ground rules of Democracy as scripted in the Nation's Constitution, people are deciding their representatives in the country's various legislative bodies, making policy statements and deciding on measures similar to the uniform of the army, fitting all the soldiers in general and no one in particular, while most of the representatives have no qualms about their lavish lifestyle at the cost of aam aadmi. A columnist's opening statement in an article carried by a daily the other day, reading "Anyone who actually cares for India has found the Modi era very invigorating in the sense of crawling over broken glass in a fire, with Kraits repeatedly biting your bottom" seems to reflect the mindset of a large section of the population.

The Republic has got hit by a multitude of happenings proving highly toxic to its survival, criminal acts by both elected representatives and the electors taking the lion's share in the proceedings. Having been betrayed by the netas, a voice from aam janata recalls the Kannada proverb "Huchchumunde maduveli, undavane jaana."

The world of connected technologies means that we must be constantly aware about protecting our devices, servers and information. Teen on fishing trip stabbed by jumping Needlefish

Buton: A 16-year-old Indonesian boy suffered a stab injury to his neck after a needlefish suddenly jumped out of the water and pierced his neck, knocking him out of the boat.

The incident occurred when 16-year-old Muhammad Idul and his friend Sari decided to go on a late-night fishing trip at a sea in Buton, off the South East Sulawesi province. When Sari turned on his flashlight, a needlefish suddenly leapt out of the water and lodge its pointy, long jaws in Muhammad's neck, piercing it from his chin to the base of the skull.

Muhammad's father rushed him to a hospital in Bau-bau, where doctors removed most of the needlefish so just the head remained, but they couldn't do more because they lacked the proper tools.

Muhammad had to travel to a Provincial Hospital in Makassar, the capital of South Sulawesi, where a team of five specialists needed an hour to carefully clean what remained of the fish and close his neck wound.

Postman arrested for hoarding 24,000 undelivered mail

Yokohama: A 61-year-old postal worker from Yokohama city in Japan was recently arrested for hoarding around 24,000 mail that he had failed to deliver since 2003.

The 61-year-old admitted to failing to deliver the tens of thousands of letters and parcels, claiming that doing his job "was too much bother". But he didn't want his younger colleagues to think he was less capable than them, so he just hid the mail at home.

The unnamed postal worker admitted to the allegations and is now facing up to three years behind bard or a fine of up to 500,000 yen ($4,600).

Show concern for Seniors

Sir,

After retiring from my active service eight years back, I have been frequently travelling between Mysuru and Bengaluru by train. Most of the time, I book my ticket in advance for comfortable travelling and on very few occasions, forced to travel without reservation. One recent incident which disturbed me most is worth sharing here.

I was travelling by Vishwamanava Express starting at 5.50 am from Mysuru City Railway Station and it stopped at Mandya. People started pushing in for seats and one old man, aged around 75 years, was struggling to get a seat. The train started moving and hence could not get down. Desperately, he started begging for a seat from a couple of youngsters and middle-aged. Sensing his capacity to travel standing, I called him and offered my seat for which he refused stating that I am also around his age and his conscious will not permit to accept such help.

After my repeated request he agreed to take this offer on one condition that he will stand again after Ramanagaram.

At this juncture, I remembered some of the articles in SOM by N.K.A. Ballal on human values and respect for elders. It is really painful to see the attitude of present generation. Barring a few, it is difficult to understand our young blood who have commercialised even human relations.

At Ramanagaram, as per our understanding he allowed me the valuable seat and the journey continued. Luckily he got a seat at Bidadi. He got down at Kengeri thanking me orally and through his eyes for my concern and help.

Railways have improved their services and provided separate ladies compartments in almost all the trains but not a single compartment marking reservation to seniors ! Even the ticket counter meant for seniors, both at Mysuru and Bengaluru is being used by all !

Man arrested for cheating people on the pretext of getting them Bank loans

- Gold ornaments worth lakhs of rupees seized
- He had served jail term for murdering a baby in 2008

Mysuru, Jan. 29 (SBD&KS)- Hunsur Police have arrested a man who was cheating innocent people on the pretext of getting them loans in banks and making away with their gold ornaments and cash.

The arrested is 30-year-old Sampath, a resident of Tammadahalli, Hanagod hobli in Hunsur taluk. He was arrested on Monday when he was moving around in a suspicious manner near Canara Bank on the bypass Road in Hunsur.

During interrogation, a few cases of cheating has come to light and based on the information provided by the accused, the Police have recovered gold ornaments worth Rs.2.20 lakh from him, said Superintendent of Police (SP) C.B. Ryshyanth in a press meet on Tuesday.

Innocents targeted

Accused Sampath, who constantly moved around banks, used to target innocent people especially senior citizens and cheat them. About a week back, Sampath, who was waiting for his prey near the State Bank of India (SBI) in Saligrama, targeted Nanjegowda and his wife Janakamma of Moodalabeedu village.

Accused Sampath

He approached the couple and told them that they have been sanctioned Rs. 50,000 loan under the Central Government's Kisan Yojana and asked the couple to wait outside while he went inside the Bank to enquire about it.

Coming out of the Bank after sometime, Sampath told the couple that they had indeed got the loan and added that the Bank would release the loan amount if they deposit Rs.10,000.

Believing him, the couple told him that they do not have the money now and Janakamma removed her gold mangalya chain and gave it to Sampath, hoping that the Bank would release the loan amount.

Sampath, who pretended to go inside the Bank, fled from the spot and a case was registered at Saligrama Police Station.

In the same manner, Sampath had cheated another couple of Alanahalli in Mysuru about six months ago. After making the couple believe him, Sampath, who had received Rs.1,500 cash, a gold finger ring, a pair of gold earrings and a gold chain (kasinasara) from the couple, had fled from the place. Sampath had also cheated a couple in T. Narasipur about eight months back and had fled with Rs.2,000 cash, gold finger ring, pair of gold earrings and a gold chain.

In 2010, Sampath befriended a man, who had withdrawn cash at Canara Bank in Ramanathapura, Hassan district and had fled with Rs.20,000. A case was registered at Konanur Police Station.

Accused had served jail term for murder

Apart from cheating many innocent people, accused Sampath had also served 10-12 years jail term in a murder case and was released a year ago.

In 2008, Sampath, who had taken a married woman and her baby with him, had killed the baby near Bidadi. After which he was arrested by the Bidadi Police and a Court had sentenced him to jail.

After being released from the jail, Sampath, instead of leading a good life, took to cheating innocent people to make fast money.

He had taken a room on rent at a lodge on Ashoka Road in Mysuru and was staying there.

Fearing of getting caught if he committed robbery, dacoity and extortion, Sampath used to target innocent people and cheat them.

Special Police Team

Following the increase in cases of cheating and dacoity in Hunsur town, a Special Police Team, led by Hunsur Circle Inspector Poovaiah, was formed which arrested Sampath and recovered 43 grams gold mangalya chain, two pairs of gold earrings, three gold finger rings, four gold coins, 98 gold beads, all weighing 74 grams from him. Accused Sampath was produced before a Court on Monday, which remanded him to judicial custody.

The Special Police Team comprised staff Prabhakar, Mahesh, Yogesh, Kiran Kumar, Manohar, Srinivasaprasad, Mohan Kumar, Puttanayaka, Bharatesh and Nagesh.

SP Ryshyanth has announced a cash prise for the team.

Mysuru, Jan. 29 (SPN&KS)- A forcible child marriage has been stopped by the District Police, after the would-be minor bride's friend tagged the message of her friend seeking help to the Bengaluru City Police Facebook page.

The Bengaluru Police, who responded to the alert, contacted Mysuru District Police, who have successfully stopped the marriage.

The marriage of the minor girl was fixed with a relative on Jan.30 by her parents against her wishes.

The minor girl had written on her friend's Facebook page stating that she was being married forcibly with a relative and had sought her help in alerting the Police.

Following her request, the minor girl's friend tagged the message to Bengaluru City Police Facebook page.

Bengaluru Police, who saw the tagged message, alerted Mysuru Superintendent of Police (SP) C.B. Ryshyanth, who along with jurisdictional Police immediately visited the village and successfully stopped the child marriage from taking place.

However, returning after the shoot, Rajinikanth told presspersons at the Chennai Airport that he was not injured during the shoot. "There were some reports that I was injured. This is not true and I was just pricked by a few thorns," the actor said.

Permission granted from Bengaluru

The permission to shoot inside the Tiger Reserve was granted by the authorities in Bengaluru but the permission letter did not mention actor Rajinikanth's name but mentioned a 'special guest'. An agreement was signed between the Karnataka Forest Department and a Mumbai-based studio for shooting the documentary in December 2019, sources said.

The crew was only permitted the use of cameras and a couple of equipment and there was no permission to use heavy vehicles carrying generators, electricity, explosives, flash lights or reflectors, officials said.

Green activists cry foul

The move to allow shooting of Man Vs Wild, however, invited widespread criticism from environmentalists who argued that the presence of the film crew not just endangers the animals but also has raised fears of igniting forest fires that could start and spread quickly due to the prevailing dry conditions.

"They could have filmed in the monsoons as fires can start and spread very quickly during the summer months," Joseph Hoover, conservationist and former member of the Karnataka Wildlife Board said. He added when the shooting of the episode takes place in Bandipur, the Forest Department would be more focused on providing security to the VIPs instead of preventing forest inferno.

The fears of activists aren't without basis as Karnataka has lost thousands of acres to forest fires. The major ones in recent times include the one in 2013, 2017 and 2019 that account for around 8,000 hectares, according to estimates by activists.

Kerala trucks dumping medical waste seized; two arrested

Mysuru, Jan. 29 (YDS&BCT)- At a time when Mysuru is vying to bag the top place in the Cleanest City ranking under Swachh Bharat Mission, trucks from Kerala continue to dump waste including hazardous medical waste on roadsides, especially in the areas that border Mysuru City Corporation and the Mysuru District.

Kerala that is facing a huge crisis in solid waste management has found a convenient way of getting rid of waste by dumping them in Mysuru where trucks laden with waste cross the border in the night, dump waste and again cross the border in the wee hours.

The hazardous garbage in the form of bio-medical waste is being dumped unabated and this is threatening the health of local residents. Yesterday, an alert team of District Police seized two trucks with bio-medical waste and two persons were arrested at Adakanahalli Industrial Area in Nanjangud taluk.

The arrested have been identified as Afzal Muneer and Syed Mohammed. Their accomplices Kabir, Shoaib and Muneer are absconding and efforts are on to trace them. It was found that the accused transported the loads of bio-medical waste from Kozhikode and they have earlier dumped eight to 10 similar loads in the vicinity.

Superintendent of Police C.B. Ryshyanth told reporters that two trucks from Kozhikode in Kerala entered Mysuru late at night and were about to unload the medical waste on Government land around Adakanahalli Industrial Area when the Police intervened. The trucks crossed the check post in Nanjangud at around 3.30 am and the Police followed the trucks and caught the two occupants when they were trying to unload the medical waste.

Though complaints of dumping of waste from Kerala in Mysuru had been made earlier also, the SP said that the Police had managed to catch the accused red-handed involved in the dumping of medical waste after setting up a check post at Nanjangud that is manned 24x7.

The accused will be booked under provisions of Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, for transporting medical waste without proper documentation as well as for environmental degradation under the anti-pollution laws.

Trucks carrying plastic waste, packing materials, medical waste and other non-biodegradable waste from Kerala, which enter city outskirts through various inter-State check posts, have been dumping waste at private lands.

It may be recalled that the Mysuru City Corporation officials had seized a couple of trucks which were dumping waste transported from Kerala. Also, similar seizures were reported in Gundlupet, Chamarajanagar.

Medical research often involves animal testing. What are alternatives to it?

Using cadavers, computer simulators and human clinical and epidemiological studies, is faster, more reliable, less expensive and more humane than using animal tests. Ingenious scientists have used human brain cells to develop a model "microbrain" that can be used to study tumours. They have also developed artificial skin and artificial bone marrow. We can now test irritancy on egg membranes, perform pregnancy tests by using blood samples instead of killing rabbits, and produce vaccines from cell cultures. As Gordon Baxter, co-founder of Pharmagene Laboratories (a company that uses only human tissues and computers to develop and test drugs), says, "If you have information on human genes, what's the point of going back to animals?"

It is often argued that animals will overpopulate if we turn vegan, what could be possible rebuttal to this argument?

It is unrealistic to expect that everyone will stop eating animals overnight. As the demand for meat decreases, the number of animals bred will decrease. Farmers will stop breeding so many animals and will turn to other types of agriculture. When there are fewer of these animals, they will be able to live more natural lives.

When a cat is following you, why does it run ahead of you?

Basically cats think of you as a large and stupid family member — not as a leader and hero as dogs do but as an incapable member of their family who can't run, jump, climb trees, kill mice or birds.

So if you are walking in a direction that interests the cat, for instance you have a bowl of food in your hand, or a toy, then the cat wants to make sure that you get there. So she/he is not following you, they are leading you to show you the way and making sure you don't change your mind or get distracted.

Which mammals are only found in India?

Some of them are the Western Hoolock Gibbon, Asiatic lion, Sangai deer, Lion tailed macaque, Kashmir stag, Nilgiri tahr, Pygmy hog, Malabar civet, Indian Bison, Blue Bull. All of them are severely endangered.

How can I eradicate mites safely from a bird without hurting it?

Bird mites are generally associated with moist or humid conditions and are most active during spring and early summer. You can use an anti-mite repellent on the bird so as to not hurt it.

Bird mites, apart from inhabiting places where pigeons and sparrows are located, can also be found in small spaces where you cannot reach. A bird mite is pale yellow in colour but, after feeding on blood, they become engorged and turn a dark red colour. Once they are fed, they return to their hiding spot and start breeding. When a bird nest is abandoned, their food supply comes to an end, and that is when mites enter the house. Without blood they can only survive for three weeks. Inside homes, bird mites are found in clothes, bed mattress, bed sheets, carpets, and sofas. Here are a few natural remedies to get rid of bird mites:

Orange Oil - The extract from citrus peel is quite effective in killing mites, ticks, lice, and fleas. You can create a spray on your own. Grind lemon peels and add water to it. Strain the mixture and pour the water into a spray bottle. Cut an orange peel into small strips and add them into the bottle. You can use this spray on clothing, bedding, bathroom, etc., to avoid infestation of mites.

Neem Oil - Neem oil has a 95% success rate in killing bird mites. You can use it as a spray, dissolved in water, or you can put it on the traps.

Vinegar - Mites hate the smell of vinegar. By using it in its concentrated form, you will get better results in getting rid of bird mites. You can also use vinegar-based cleaners for mopping floor and wiping other areas.

Can birds become dependent on bird feeders?

Feeding isn't likely to make birds dependent, if you do it in moderation. Studies indicate birds that visit feeders also circulate through the surrounding area, on the hunt for natural foods. They quickly adapt to changes in the supply, so the situation of dependency may not be fatal. But yes, there will be a problem if you suddenly withdraw the supply of food. Urban birds have very little green to depend on, so I would suggest that you make the feeding a permanent feature.

What is the difference between a service animal and an emotional support animal?

A service animal is any dog that is individually trained to do work, or perform tasks, for the benefit of an individual with a disability, including a physical, sensory, psychiatric, intellectual, or other mental disability. People with mobility issues such as paralysis, or sensory issues such as blindness and hearing loss, are provided with service dogs.

An emotional support animal is a companion animal that provides some benefit for a person disabled by a mental health condition, such as a major depressive disorder or panic attacks, or emotional disorder such as severe anxiety issues. Emotional support animals are very important in hospitals, disability centres, autism schools etc. and they make a big difference. An emotional support dog need not be trained except in the basic commands. Their main job is to be nice to people and they must be ready to be petted by strangers.

Can animals besides cats and dogs act as emotional support animals/ assistance animals?

Emotional support animals are typically dogs and cats, but may be members of other animal species. Courts have recognised species, including guinea pigs and miniature horses, as emotional support animals.

My dog's nose is dry. Is it a sign of illness?

The temperature and moisture of your dog's nose are not miracle measurements of his health. For instance, a dog's nose is often dry and/ or warm if he has just woken up, and this is perfectly normal. However, a nose that is persistently dry and crusted might be a sign of a health problem.

My dog often has a habit of chewing things. What should I do?

Use positive reinforcement to teach your dog what he can chew. When he takes an approved object to chew, praise him. If you catch him with something he shouldn't have, remove it without comment, provide an acceptable chew toy and praise him for chewing on that.

My dog has a habit of licking his wounds. Will he heal his wound faster?

The dog's rough tongue helps remove any impurities in an open wound, such as dirt and debris, lowering the risk of infection and contamination. The saliva then forms a film of coolness over the top of the wound, which numbs the area and reduces the pain. However, licking won't cure all your dog's injuries, and veterinary treatment is necessary. Excessive licking of the paws can lead to infection or injury known as lick granuloma, or hot spots. Vets often recommend that a dog, who has undergone surgery, wears a cone around his neck to prevent him from licking a surgical wound or stitches.

What is the best way to transition to new dog food?

Dogs' nutritional needs evolve as they age. The best way to transition to new dog food is to change your dog's diet gradually and systematically.

Transition your dog to a new food by mixing the new dog food with the old one, and increasing the quantity of the new food for the next seven days.

Avoid giving your dog any treats or human food for at least six weeks while you are experimenting with a new diet. It may take as long as 12 weeks before you can tell whether a new diet regimen is working.

L&T's CSR initiative under STEM education

Transforming Mysuru's rural students into skilled Technopreneurs

Mysuru, Jan.29- Larsen & Toubro (L&T), India's leading Engineering, Technology and Construction conglomerate, has set up high-end computer labs and introduced experiential training programmes in seven Government Schools in Mysuru, to transform budding students into skilled Technopreneurs.

As part of its Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) efforts to provide thrust to STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics) education, L&T has introduced a programme titled Zero2Maker (Z2M), in partnership with Encube Labs and Asia School of Business, Kaula Lumpur.

Close to 2,000 students are getting empowered under this training programme and 12 teams among them recently demonstrated their skills of robot-making. The selected students from classes 7 to 9 are exposed to sessions on creativity, science, CAD design, electronics, fabrication, coding and latest technologies like 3D printing and robotics.

"This programme is designed to transform the uninitiated students and equip them to be a 'Maker.' Subsequently, the programme mentor transforms a student into an 'Innovator' who can meet the needs of a potential customer and develop solutions. Thus, the 'Technopreneur' who can commercialise and monetise the solution, is born. This programme initiates the student's journey on this path," said a spokesperson at Larsen & Toubro.

The first year of the Z2M programme culminates in a design competition that recognises top-performing participants who display an exemplary commitment to promoting innovation and entrepreneurship in their schools. The design challenge allows local schools to engage in healthy competition thereby creating an atmosphere of innovation and entrepreneurship across several schools.

The first phase of this programme started in Mysuru in July 2019 with 42 students from seven local schools participating in a 3-day workshop to ideate, design and create products. Before the workshop, most of the students had neither used a computer nor built solutions using complex technology.

After the programme, participating schools were given a starter maker lab, enough to continue the programme in their school. The kit provided by L&T includes design and fabrication facilities with 3D printers, hand tools and fabrication materials, as well as electronic modules such as sensors, motors, displays, microcontrollers, at seven Government Schools in rural Karnataka.

Building skills in STEM has been the prime focus of all the education enhancement programmes by L&T. The conglomerate plans to impart STEM education to 23,000 students of Government Schools in the country, with a focus to equip students to face the future job market. Under this programme, L&T has provided tablets — pre-loaded with the STEM curriculum — to students in seven Government Schools in Mysuru.

Amit Kumar, Vice-President and Head - Metering and Protection System, presented prizes to the winners. Prof. Rajesh Nair, Asia School of Business and Mohan Kumar, Education Co-ordinator, Mysuru Taluk were present on the occasion, according to a press release from K.Nagaraja, AGM- Administration and Plant Engineering, L&T, Mysuru.

Bahuroopi-2020 poster released

Mysuru, Jan. 29- "The Bahuroopi National Theatre Festival, based on theme 'Gandhi Patha' (Gandhi's Path), will be held at Rangayana from Feb.13 to 19. Officials must make all preparations for holding the Festival," said Additional Deputy Commissioner (ADC) B.R. Poornima.

She was addressing the officials of various Departments at the preliminary meeting held at Kalamandira here yesterday.

The Theatre Festival will be held at Kalamandira as well as Vanaranga, Kiru Rangamandira and Bhoomigeeta, she added.

Renowned Kannada actor Anant Nag will be inaugurating Bahuroopi-2020 on Feb.14.

Poster released

With just 15 days left for the inauguration of much awaited annual Theatre Festival, which draws thousands of theatre buffs to the venue, Rangayana released the Fest Poster this morning.

Senior theatre artiste Dr. H.K. Ramanath released the posters and the final list of plays which will be staged during the Fest.

Speaking after releasing the posters, Dr. Ramanath said, "Rangayana is the dream project of B.V. Karanth. This is the 20th edition of Bahuroopi. Since its inception, Rangayana is working for promoting peace and harmony among people."

Rangayana Director Addanda C. Cariappa briefed about the upcoming Festival and said: "On the occasion of 150th birth anniversary of Mahatma Gandhi, the theme for the Festival this year is 'Gandhi Patha.' Tomorrow is the Martyrs' Day. It is in this light that we are releasing the posters today."

Urging the Government to release at least Rs.1 crore exclusively for Bahuroopi, Cariappa said, "last year, Rs.5.75 lakh was collected from ticket sales and Rs.3 lakh from stalls, but the total expenses incurred was Rs. 60 lakh. This year, Bahuroopi will cost an estimated Rs.1 crore. The Government support is far from adequate. The State Government, therefore, should be generous and earmark at least Rs.2 crore every year for Mysuru Rangayana in its budget.

"Nowhere in the country we have a museum exclusively for theatre. We are planning to set up such a unique museum of theatre and exclusive library in Rangayana premises," he added.

Assistant Director of Kannada and Culture Department H. Chennappa, Rangayana artistes Hulugappa Kattimani, Geetha Montadka, Prashanth Hiremath and others were present at the Poster release event.

Alleged false claims

When Rashmi's brother Rakesh began questioning Rashmi for the money, Rashmi confronted Subramanya and on her insistence, Subramanya showed a locked house in Tumakuru and said he had bought the house. But Rashmi and Rakesh realised that Subramanya was lying when the documents were verified, the Inspector added.

They later took Subramanya to his father Nagendra Murthy's house at Mudigundam and realised that Murthy was building a small house and had taken loans from a bank. Nagendra Murthy's wife had passed away and he had a physically challenged son to support.

Assault in Kollegal

Subramanya's claims fell flat and an enraged Rakesh, brother of Rashmi and Rashmi allegedly assaulted Subramanya at Kollegal. Inspector Balakrishnegowda said that Rakesh had known certain loan recovery bouncers in Bengaluru and summoned seven of them to Kollegal to allegedly assault Subramanya. Sustaining grievous injuries, Subramanya got admitted to a private hospital in Kollegal on Jan. 21.

As the nature of injuries were serious, the doctors asked Subramanya to get admitted to JSS Hospital in Mysuru. Subramanya informed his father Nagendra Murthy about the assault and got admitted to JSS Hospital in Mysuru. Looking at the injuries where Subramanya's lower abdomen was damaged, the doctors booked a medico-legal case and informed the Vijayanagar Police.

Severe internal bleeding

Subramanya was suffering from severe internal bleeding due to the assault and when the Police team led by Vijayanagar Inspector Balakrishnegowda questioned Subramanya, he narrated that he was assaulted by Rashmi, Rakesh and seven bouncers. Subramanya died on Jan. 26 and his father Nagendra Murthy filed a formal Police complaint said Inspector Balakrishnegowda.

"Subramanya told us that he had borrowed Rs. 87 lakh from Rashmi and was assaulted for not returning the money. We are interrogating Rashmi and Rakesh while we are on the lookout for the other seven accused who are absconding. Dr. Chandrakanth of JSS Medical College performed the post-mortem and we have sent viscera samples to Forensic Science Laboratory for tests. Investigations are on and depending on the nature of injuries, we will register cases accordingly and arrests will be made," Balakrishnegowda told Star of Mysore.

Vidwan Manasa Nayana will be accompanied by Vidushi Nalina Mohan on violin, Vidwan Sai Shivu Lakshmi Keshav on mridanga and Vidwan N.S. Narayanamurthy on ghata.

Artistes' Profiles: Vidwan Manasa Nayana was initiated into music by Vidushi S.K. Vasumathi and he also trained under Vidwan Vairamangalam Lakshminarayana. But it was Sangeetha Kalanidhi Dr. R. K. Srikanthan, who was decisive in shaping his career in music. Currently, he is under the tutelage of Sangeetha Kalanidhi R. Vedavalli. Vidushi Pushpa Srinivasan and Sangeetha Kalanidhi Chitravina N. Ravikiran have also helped him in acquiring various nuances of music.

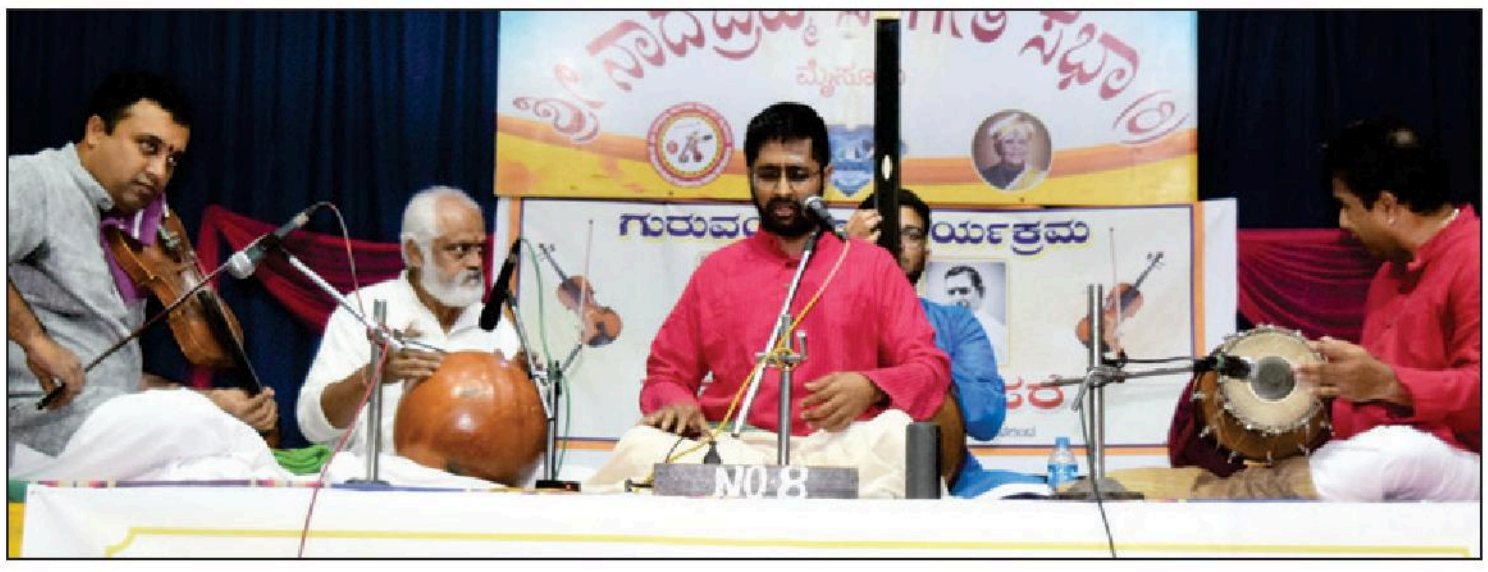
Brimming with brilliant ideas

By Dr. Padmavathi Narasimhan



In memory of Parur Gopala Kishnan, Nadabrahma Sangeetha Sabha had organised Abhishek Raghuram's vocal concert on Jan.10. He was accompanied by MSG's disciple H.N. Bhaskar on violin, Arjun Kumar on mridanga and Ramanujam on ghata.

Abhishek is known to be an unusually cerebral singer for one so young. He has a grand name attached to him — that of his grandfather Palghat Raghu. Abhishek's training under him and P.S. Narayanaswamy has enabled him to imbibe the intricacies of rhythm and vocal skills. His uncompromising hard work and brilliant talent have shaped him into a top ranking musician today.

Abhishek is a versatile musician. No two concerts of Abhishek are the same. This is why we always hear a totally different version of the same raga though we have heard him render the same raga in his other concerts. He always gives us a new insight into the raga. Take for example, his Hameer Kalyani, which he chose as the main piece of the evening. Singing this raga for more than fifteen minutes is not everybody's cup of tea. Abhishek chose to sing Tyagaraja's "Manamu leda Tanavadani abhimanamu leda' with elaborate swara patterns for the pallavi, followed by Taniyavartanam by Arjun kumar and Ramanujam.

Abhishek also explores ragas with limited material. He expanded Tyagaraja's 'shobhillu saptaswara' and offered such kalpana swaras to 'Saptaswara' in the pallavi that were a proof of his imaginary skills.

Even common ragas find a new dimension in the hands of Abhishek. Mohana was aesthetic with Tyagraja's 'Bhavanuta' and 'Vandanamu Raghunandana' in Shahana was glorified with never-heard-before sangatis.

Bhaskar was faithful in reproducing all the birgas and intricacies of the vocalist and the percussionists had a full-time job throughout.

A slower tempo, bhava and clarity in Sahitya could elevate the concert to greater heights. A study of the kritis that he presents will perhaps help this brilliant musician to do more justice to the compositions.

WORD OF THE DAY

Dauntless

Pronunciation: DAWNT-lus.

Meaning: Incapable of being intimidated or subdued : fearless, undaunted.
Origin: The history of the world is peopled with dauntless men and women who refused to be "subdued" or "tamed" by fear. The word dauntless can be traced back to Latin domare, meaning "to tame" or "to subdue." When our verb daunt (a domare descendant adopted by way of Anglo-French) was first used in the 14th century, it shared these meanings. The now-obsolete "tame" sense referred to the taming or breaking of wild animals, particularly horses: an undaunted horse was an unbroken horse. Not until the late 16th century did we use undaunted with the meaning "undiscouraged and courageously resolute" to describe people. By then, such lion-hearted souls could also be described as "undauntable" as well as "dauntless."
Example: With dauntless persistence, the ship's crew navigated the vessel through the unexpected storm, escaping with minimal damage and no casualties.

THE ODD WORD

Danism

Lending money on usury.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Don't count your chickens before they hatch

Meaning: "Don't count your chickens before they hatch" is an old saying that means you shouldn't get your hopes up or make plans based only on assumptions because that can lead to disappointment.

Origin: If you were in possession of a chicken and it laid three eggs, does that mean you will soon have three more chickens? If you said yes, well, as the saying goes, don't count your chickens before they hatch. But why? Because it is not guaranteed that all three of those chickens will hatch successfully and live. Yes, complications can arise that result in them dying before they even have a chance to hatch. Thus, out of those three eggs, maybe only two of them survive. Or maybe none at all if things go really poorly.
Anyways, this expression goes back to at least the 16th century, and it's at least 448 years old. It's earliest appearance in print (that I know of) is in a book called New Sonnets and Pretty Pamphlets by Thomas Howell, 1570:
"Counte not thy Chickens that vnhatched be,
Waye wordes as winde, till thou finde certaintee."

QUOTE BOX

Being an old farm boy myself, chickens coming home to roost never did make me sad; they've always made me glad. — Malcolm X

R-Day: Beating Retreat 2020 at Vijay Chowk this evening

New Delhi, Jan.29- The Beating Retreat ceremony will be held at the Vijay Chowk today (Jan.29) starting from 6 pm.

The ceremony, organised on Jan.29 every year, marks the culmination of the four-day-long Republic Day celebrations. It includesperformance bythebands of three wings of the Military — Indian Army, Indian Navy and Indian Air Force at Raisina Hills.

The ceremony traces its origins to the early 1950s when Major Roberts of the Indian Army developed the unique ceremony of display by the massed bands.

The Beating Retreat ceremony marks a centuries-old military tradition when the troops ceased fighting, sheathed their arms and withdrew from the battlefield and returned to the camps at sunset at the sounding of the Retreat.

The ceremony begins with the arrival of the President accompanied by his bodyguards in their ceremonial dress.

After the event, the Prime Minister walks around the Vijay Chowk and greets the crowd.

This year, the Inter-services guard will be commanded by Wing Commander Vipul Goyal.

The Air Force march will be led by Flight Lieutenant Shrikant Sharma and three other officers. The Air Force band is to have 72 musicians and three drum majors.
